Abstract

The Holy Quran is the scripture that the Prophet of Islam (pbuh) has received through revelation to lead the human society towards human Utopia. After the Prophet passed away, ahl al-Bayt (AS) have taken the task of propagation and interpretation of this heavenly Book. Imams (pbuh) also had particular efforts to guide the principles of human life based on Quranic verses. In the meantime, based on having the political authority and the position of the Imamate the Shiites, the role of Imam Reza (PBUH) is very important. After his father, the Imam has taken the task of interpreting the Quran and guiding the Islamic community and paid special attention to the Quranic teachings, and considered it a complete reference to solving problems.

Among the important points that we find in succession in the words of Imam Reza (pbuh) is his adaptation directly or indirectly from Quranic verses for explaining and having more influence on the audience. In the present study, the writers, using a descriptive-analytical method and studying Sahifat al-Reza (pbuh), will examine the influence of the Qur'anic verses on the audience from the perspective of Arabic rhetoric forms such as adaptation, quotation, argumentation, and... .

Key words: Imam Reza (pbuh); Sahifeh Al-reza; Adaptation; Quotation; Argumentation.
